Store Robbed Here Last Night

Launcester and Veal, men's clothing store located just off the square on West Main street, was entered last night and a good sum of money stolen.

The owners of the firm Frank Launcester and Lubie Veale, Jr. reported that the robbery was discovered about opening time this morning. Launcester said that he awoke at the store first and did not notice anything amiss until he walked in the front door and found part of the door itself lying on the floor.

Apparently someone literally pushed the door open, breaking off part of the door on the inside.

All the currency was taken and a good amount of change and checks were left.

The intruder apparently left by the same route. The owners said that the robbery took place before 11:00 p. m. they believed, since the front lights which are normally cut off by a time clock, had been turned off.

The robbery might have taken place last night during the time that the Murray High pep rally was being held on the court square. Most of the police facilities were in use during the rally meeting the heavy traffic.

Anyone who might have seen someone either enter the store or leave at any time after 3:00 p. m. other than Launcester or Veale is asked to contact either of the two owners at once.

A check is being made to see if any clothing is missing. Police are investigating the robbery and have picked a good set of fingerprints.

The robber missed all of the funds which the store had received in connection with ticket sales for the professional basketball game which is to be played in Murray.

Serve Others, Theme Of Willoughby Talk

Willoughby, western Kentucky delegate to the national convention of the Woodmen of the World in Los Angeles, gave a challenging report urging each member to look more closely at the true spirit and meaning of fraternal brotherhood.

Also present for the regular meeting of the camp was District Manager, James Parker.

"You're So Wonderful" Says Eva. "Who's She" Says Ike

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former President Eisenhower and his wife took a society charity cruise on a floating casino Thursday night, won $135.50, and took home a portable typewriter and a set of red plaid airplane-weight luggage.

The Eisenhowers inaugurated the New York social season by attending the New York City Cancer Committee's $100-a-couple dine and gamble frolic aboard the Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam. The gleaming white luxury vessel cruised to Ambrose Light, ship, 25 miles out in the Atlantic, while 500 socialites and celebrities capered aboard.

"I haven't done anything like this since I visited Monte Carlo before the war," said Mamie, respondent in a new blonde-highlighted hairdo and a decollete black satin gown with a turquoise stole.

"It seems we're ahead of the game," said Ike, adding his $60 winnings at roulette and craps to Mamie's winnings on her lucky roulette number, 14. "I haven't had as much fun in years."

Collects Winnings

While Ike and his millionaire cronies had tall, cool ones on the promenade deck, Mamie took their play money winnings into the caviar's well-stocked boutique to collect their "legal gambling" winnings. She chose the compact typewriter and three matching pieces of luggage.

Ike and Mamie overshadowed such personalities as Gov. Robert A. Meyner of New Jersey, Mrs. Henry Ford II, industrialist Alfred P. Sloan Jr., Laurence Rockefeller, composer Richard Rodgers, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, singers Jane Pickens and Gladys Swartout, and naturalist Fairfield Osborn. The Eisenhowers were mobbed when they boarded the ship at its Hoboken pier for cocktails and given a rousing ovation during the lobster thermidor and filet mignon dinner.

Crowds Follow

Crowds followed the beaming former White House occupants from sailon to sailon.

The most persistent of Ike's admirers was actress Eva Gabor, who never missed an opportunity to be photographed with the former chief executive.

"You're so wonderful, so wonderful," cooed Eva, who was all peach-bloom from head to toes. When she was gone, Ike quietly asked Mamie, "Who is she," Mamie only smiled.

Harry Sparks Is Thursday Rotary Guest

Harry Sparks was the speaker yesterday at the meeting of the Murray Rotary Club. Sparks spoke on "Buyer-Seller Relations."

In an entertaining and informative manner Dr. Sparks brought out a number of factors involved in the relationship between the buyer and the seller in American business.

Wants and needs are advertised most frequently he said, because man first wants to satisfy his needs, then his desires. A number of factors are brought out in advertising, he continued, which will sway the buyer in the direction of a given product. Its economy is pointed out, or comfort used to draw the attention of the many buyers.

Pride and prestige are attached

First For Murray Taylor Motors Runs Colorful Lark Ad Today

The Ledger and Times today is publishing something new for Murray, a five color advertisement for Taylor Motors, Inc.

The full color preview is on the 1962 Studebaker Lark and is presented through an exciting new printing technique called Hi-Fi which makes possible four-color newspaper reproduction that rivals the color quality of the world's finest magazines.

Studebaker-Packard, the South Bend, Ind., builder of the famous Lark automobile, is the first U.S. auto manufacturer to make use of this relatively new technique and its full-page advertisement on page 7 of today's paper represents big news in the world of communications.

No less than 38.3 million four-color Hi-Fi pages were printed for insertion in nearly 400 selected U.S. newspapers, the largest single press run of its kind for the technique to date.

The color pages were preprinted in three-foot-diameter rolls, weighing 500 pounds each, and were delivered here for overprinting of local editorial matter on the reverse side of the ad and the imprinting of local dealer information on a one-column strip to the right of the four-color Studebaker ad.

Three-thousand of these rolls—some 600 tons—were needed for the car builder's announcement. Fifty acres of timber in northern Canada—about 11,000 trees in all—were cut down to provide the special newsprint used for the Hi-Fi campaign.

If the 38.3 million pages of Hi-Fi ads were laid end-to-end, they would extend 13,750 miles. Hi-Fi traces its origins back to Germany 50 years ago and has been highly developed in the

Final Sermon At North Side Set By Pastor

Bro. T. G. Shelton will preach his last sermon at the North Side Baptist Church Sunday as pastor of the church. Bro. Shelton is resigning the pastorate to do evangelistic and supply work.

North Side Baptist Church was organized about two years ago and Bro. Shelton was instrumental in its founding. Other brethren assisting him were Otis Jones, Terry Sills, J. J. Gough, M. M. Hampton, Statten, and R. J. Burpo.

Bro. R. J. Burpo has accepted the call of the church to be the new pastor at North Side. He has been pastor of the Cherry Corner Baptist Church for the past six years. He will begin work with North Side on September 27th.

Since its founding, North Side has built a modern new building and is well on the road toward complete debt retirement. Bro. Shelton stated. We organized with 46 members and we now have around 60, he continued.

The pastor attributed the good growth in a large measure to the fine evangelistic work accomplished in two revivals held since its origin. Bro. Burpo conducted the revival work in 1960 and Dr. H. C. Chiles was the visiting evangelist this year.

Fourth Side always enjoys having visitors and tourists to worship with them and a cordial invitation is extended to all. Bro. Shelton concluded.

$5 Million Is Expected From Tobacco Crop

The dark fired tobacco crop in the Western District will total about 11,000,000 pounds this year according to Holmes Ellis, General Manager of the Western Dark Fired Tobacco Growers Association.

Ellis revealed that the tobacco growers in the eleven county (eight Purchase and three in Tennessee) will receive approximately $5,000,000 for this crop.

Several favorable aspects are seen for the current tobacco crop, Ellis said. The Association's loan stocks are lower this year by about one million pounds as compared with last year. This will enable the association to absorb more tobacco this year if necessary.

An increase in price supports of $1.60 per hundred pounds is seen for this year's crop, with most of this expected to be applied to the brown leaf and lugs

Causes Four Deaths

Four deaths were claimed on Esther, three of them on slicked highways.

The Weather Bureau explained that the storm slowed down and began to disintegrate, though incomplete, already exceeded several millions of dollars. But this is almost nothing for a major hurricane.

The Cape Cod area, braced for the full force of the storm, was hardly bothered as the hurricane died south of Nantucket Island.

Damage estimates, though incomplete, already exceeded several millions of dollars. But this is almost nothing for a major hurricane.

Disrupts Utilities

Telephone service and power failures were widespread, especially in the Long Island area, but officials expected a return to normal today.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said the storm knocked out service to 45,000 subscribers in New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. About 11,000 of these phones were restored to service early last evening.

Long Island suffered about $1 million damage to crops, homes and pleasure yachts. Connecticut and Rhode Island apple crops were also hard hit. Officials in Connecticut said damage would probably total somewhat more than $500,000.

Weather Report

Western Kentucky — Partly cloudy and warm with chance of widely scattered afternoon thunder showers today and Saturday. Fair and warm tonight, high to day and Saturday in upper 80s, low tonight near 70.

commonly known as cutting tobacco, and generally fixed for export.

Last year's crop in the Western District amounted to 9,350,000 pounds.

The trend last year was toward better prices for the export tobacco, and Ellis said that a continuation of this trend is expected for this year.

The average in the Western District last year was $41.42 per hundred pounds with a higher average anticipated this year.

Ellis said that one-sucker tobacco production this year is also more than last year, with a production of 2,000,000 pounds expected. Last year 1,800,000 pounds of one-sucker were produced.

The combined total of dark fired and one-sucker tobacco in the Western District is expected to be 13,000,000 pounds.

The weather during the past growing season has been excellent for tobacco which accounts in some measure for the increase in production.

Approximately 90 per cent of the crop has been harvested, Ellis concluded.

Hurricane Slows As It Goes To Sea

BOSTON (UPI) — Hurricane Esther, reduced to nothing more than a small storm, drifted harmlessly to sea today leaving behind relatively little damage along the northeastern coast.

The vicious storm, which once packed winds up to 150 miles an hour, suddenly disintegrated late Thursday after touching the Eastern Seaboard from New Jersey to Cape Cod. But it left some 65,000 homes on Long Island still without electricity early today.

The Cape Cod area, braced for the full force of the storm, was hardly bothered as the hurricane died south of Nantucket Island.

Damage estimates, though incomplete, already exceeded several millions of dollars. But this is almost nothing for a major hurricane.

LIBRARY NEWS

WHY READ?

Why do I read? Some people read to pass the time pleasantly; some for information; others read to keep up with their neighbors, or because they think it impresses their friends. Many people read to learn more about life; others for new ideas; some people read from habit; some for mental stimulation; some read because they wish to learn to speak the language more correctly; some read because teacher says so or to gain a prize. Many of these are good and some are not so worth while. In which group do I belong?

English teachers almost always say the best students have acquired, usually at home, the habit of reading good books.

The day has gone when only a few people can read, and afford to own good books. Your Murray-Calloway County Library and Bookmobile have made good reading available to all who want to read. It is through being in the presence of books from childhood that a love for them is acquired.

No one should limit his reading to one type—least of all to romantic or sensational fiction. Biography and history bring back the great men of the past and good literature can teach much about human nature and extend the range of experience. It is possible to travel to many lands through books and to visit places of interest in our own country and state by reading. The more we know of other countries the more we appreciate their history, culture and beauty.

Perhaps you followed Jesse Slight through his new book, "God's oddling," which is filled with stories of friends, relatives, and neighbors who help us to know the strength and wisdom of Mick Stuart. Do you know about the hardships of the "first woman doctor," Elizabeth Blackwell, written by Rachel Baker? She was refused entrance to all medical schools for some time, but finally was admitted to Geneva Medical College, New York, then learned that the student body objected. She was insulted, ignored, stared at and whispered about. Sally Carrigher's "Moonlight at midday" tells of the life of the people of our new state, Alaska. For more than a week the supply plane could not land at an arctic post because several polar bears had discovered the nice smooth runway and made it their own. Once at Barrow the congregation was delayed in the church building by a polar bear at the entrance. Perhaps you would like to climb the 26,493 foot mountain of Annapurna with Maurice Herzog. With his victory gained in a first attempt, the nine members of this expedition, succeeded in an enterprise which the most experienced Himalayan climbers had considered impossible.

We urge you to visit our Library at any time.

This Could Be The Weekend For Cincinnati To Wrap Up Flag

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press International
This could be the weekend that the Cincinnati Reds wrap up the National League pennant — and send the good burghers of the Ohio Rhineland on their first championship binge since 1940.

It was 21 years ago that guys like big Ernie Lombardi, Bucky Walters, Paul Derringer, Billy Werber and Ival Goodman helped hoist the NL flag over Crosley Field.

Now this 1961 edition of the Reds, almost a unanimous choice in the pre-season polls to finish in the second division, stands on the threshold of another World Series meeting with the New York Yankees, who whipped Cincinnati in four straight games in the 1940 classic.

The Reds open a three-game series against the San Francisco Giants tonight at Crosley Field needing any combination of four Cincinnati victories and Los Angeles Dodgers losses to walk off with the pennant. They can reduce that magic number to two tonight and clinch the flag in the second game against the Giants Saturday afternoon.

Could Be Trouble
However, the Giants could postpone the clinching if they treat the Reds as roughly as they did last month when they won three out of four games at Crosley Field. That would force the Reds to lug their champagne to Chicago, where they meet the Cubs next Tuesday.

For tonight's game, Cincinnati manager Fred Hutchinson has named Bob Purkey (16-11) to pitch against the Giants' Billy O'Dell (5-5). The Dodgers open a weekend set at St. Louis with Johnny Podres (18-5) going against the Cards' Ray Sadecki (14-8).

The Yankees, with their 26th pennant tucked away, called on their reserves for Thursday night's only game at Baltimore. However, Roger Maris remained in the lineup and went hitless in four appearances as the Orioles downed the Yankees, 5-3.

Maris now has seven games remaining to equal to break Babe Ruth's record 60 home runs in one season, although he passed the 154-game "official" mark prescribed by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick when he hit his 59th single and his first home run of the year.

In the only other major league action Thursday, the Minnesota Twins whipped the Washington Senators, 6-3. Only 1,498 fans watched the Senators bid adieu to Griffith Stadium. They are expected to move to the new District of Columbia Stadium next season.

The Twins pounded out 11 hits, including a triple by Harmon Killebrew and doubles by Bob Allison and Joe Alto Belli, in handing Bennie Daniels his 13th victory although he had to leave the game after the starting inning when he developed a blister.

His Canaveral-like canter among the stars he has read the newspaper with the critical eye of an editor suffering from ulcers. He has had what is known as a "good press," meaning that most of the reviews of his efforts were encouraging and complimentary.

After his 59th home run in the third inning Wednesday night, a reporter pursued the ball into the right field bleachers. It had been snatched by an unemployed machinist as if it were the Kohinoor diamond and consented between innings to pose for pictures with Maris.

There was a discussion of its worth in a trade. There was the offer of two new balls in exchange; of two tickets to the first game of the World Series; of a flat $25. It wasn't enough to the unemployed one.

"You gonna keep it?" Maris asked.
"Yep."
"Well, good luck to you," Maris said icily, and walked back to the dugout.

Later, in a Yankee dressing room long accustomed to pennant winning celebrations, they mechanically were going through the expected ritual of drinking champagne from paper cups and dousing beer on the heads of the younger and less blasé members.

SPORTS PARADE

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press International

BALTIMORE (UP) — Roger Maris had just hit No. 59, a blow which put him second in baseball annals only to the immortal Babe Ruth, and he was as impassive as someone living in a vacuum.

He was a man with the cold poise of a Mississippi steam boat gambler holding a royal flush. The face was as expressionless as those cut into the unyielding rock of Mount Rushmore.

His deep-set eyes gazed forth, watching world with the flinty, unwavering stare of a house detective checking a spurious credit card.

The voice was the flat, level monotone of a train announcer reading a part in Othello.

How did he feel now that he had hit one less than Ruth — and one more than any other man in baseball history — in the 154-game limit imposed by Commissioner Ford Frick?

He shrugged, still without cracking the veneer.
"I tried and all I got was one. I'm happy and lucky to get what I got. I'm relieved, too."

No Expression
He didn't look happy, or sad, or relieved. You'd see more expression on the fish who stole your bait, the lady who won 20 cents on her two-buck ticket on the favorite to show, on the guy whose wife didn't pick his pocket of the poker winnings.

What about the Frick ruling? "He makes the rules."
This is not a new facade manufactured for protective coloration. Maris is noted as a quiet man, albeit one ever prepared to sneak up with unyielding firmness when he is displeased. There is about him the withdrawn manner of a pick-pocket at the police convention, a characteristic which never has made him a roaring favorite among his mates.

Throughout the latter stages of his Canaveral-like canter among the stars he has read the newspaper with the critical eye of an editor suffering from ulcers. He has had what is known as a "good press," meaning that most of the reviews of his efforts were encouraging and complimentary.

After his 59th home run in the third inning Wednesday night, a reporter pursued the ball into the right field bleachers. It had been snatched by an unemployed machinist as if it were the Kohinoor diamond and consented between innings to pose for pictures with Maris.

There was a discussion of its worth in a trade. There was the offer of two new balls in exchange; of two tickets to the first game of the World Series; of a flat $25. It wasn't enough to the unemployed one.

"You gonna keep it?" Maris asked.
"Yep."
"Well, good luck to you," Maris said icily, and walked back to the dugout.

Later, in a Yankee dressing room long accustomed to pennant winning celebrations, they mechanically were going through the expected ritual of drinking champagne from paper cups and dousing beer on the heads of the younger and less blasé members.

Enough Cries Singer Rosemary

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Legal representatives of singer Rosemary Clooney confirmed today she plans to file for divorce from José Ferrer, her husband for eight years, and end another of Hollywood's "ideal" marriages.

Miss Clooney, 33, was reported to have told friends she had not been getting along with director-actor-producer Ferrer "for a long time."

"This is final," she was reported to have said to the friends.

The Ferrers have five children and have long been considered one of the entertainment world's happiest couples.

Several other apparently ideal Hollywood marriages have gone on the rocks in recent years, including Robert Wagner and Natalie Wood, Glenn Ford and Eleanor Powell and Eddie Fisher and Debbie Reynolds.

A representative of Miss Clooney's legal counsel said, "You would not be wrong in saying she will file for divorce pretty darn quick." He indicated the action probably would be today in Santa Monica Superior Court.

Ferrer, 49, directing the movie "State Fair" in Dallas, Tex., refused to comment and Miss Clooney was not available to comment.

It was her first marriage and Ferrer's third. He previously was wed to Uta Hagen and Phyllis Hill.

One TV network biography said the Ferrers were "one of Hollywood's most devoted couples."

In a 1959 interview, Rosemary expressed her love for lots of children. "I want all the children I can have," she said. "When Joe (Ferrer) and I were first married I thought six would be a nice round number. But, golly, now I realize I only have two more to go, and that isn't enough."

sition and Mayfield has allowed opponents to rack up only 14.

Murray High operates from a single wing offensive attack that is built around two speedy, elusive halfbacks in the persons of Charlie Robertson and Tommy Wells, plus the fine blocking of Steve "Stonewall" Williams.

Charlie Robertson leads the Tigers in scoring with 31 points. Wells and Williams have contributed 25 and 19 points respectively.

Joe David Smith, a junior quarterback loaded with talent, draws the praise of the Mayfield followers. The Cardinals also boast of an explosive halfback in Ronnie Laird and a fine fullback in Bill Belote. Smith is the leading scorer for the Cards with 36 points; Laird has managed to rack up 24 and Belote has chipped in with a close 18.

Scores of Murray High Tiger fans will journey to Mayfield tonight for what Coach Holland calls "our toughest opponent to date and a hard game where the boys will have to play to win every second."

The two powerful foes "kick-off" their "must" encounter at 8 o'clock. Win, lose or draw... it's a fight to the finish.

Over The County Agent's Desk

by S. V. Foy, County Agent

September is the month in which tobacco farmers should do two jobs to help their next-year crops.

The jobs: Testing of soils for tobacco crops, and starting plant bed management.

Key points under each:

SOIL TESTING: Take samples immediately after harvest and before the cover crop is seeded. Soils tested in the fall show practically the same results as spring samples, and fall tests show whether time is needed or not. Fall liming will help prevent "true freckling" (a leaf condition) the following year, and will also help prevent manganese toxicity if that problem was present this year.

In continuous tobacco fields, there are three primary soil needs. When fields show a PH (soil acidity level) of 5.2 or under, use one to two tons of lime before a cover crop is seeded; with a pH of 5.2 to 5.6, use one to two tons of lime in the routine liming program of the farm. If pH is 5.7 or higher, no lime is needed.

But if fields of pH 5.6 or higher had manganese toxicity problems, the farmer should give serious consideration to changing to another field next year.

On rotation tobacco sod land a soil PH of 5 or under, one to two tons of lime is needed; for sod land of pH 5 to 5.6 this fall one to two tons of lime also in the routine liming plan; for sod land of 5.7 or above, no lime needed.

Potassium and phosphorus results from fall samplings are also very useful. Fall results for these two elements are so close to spring results that farmers can safely use the fall findings. Consult your county agent about testing now.

Plant Bed Management: Bed sites should be selected, now, plowed and disked several times before treatment, and sites ditched thoroughly to divert surface water which may carry wildfire disease. The plowing and disking will bring weed seeds to the surface and make them easier to kill. It will also reduce leaf-spot diseases the following season.

Three soil treatments to kill weed seed are recommended. They are burning, steaming, and chemical treatment.

Cautioned farmers about soil types that will pack hard over the winter. Avoid such areas as bed sites.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — burley tobacco curing advisory Kentucky and southern Indiana prepared in cooperation with University of Kentucky Agronomy Department.

Curing conditions were good Friday. The predicted increase in moisture today will lower only fair Saturday.

During this period the benefit will be gained by opening barn doors and ventilators during the day and closing them at night.
